

Night Trap is a 1992 interactive movie developed by Digital Pictures and published by Sega for the Sega CD. Presented primarily through full-motion video (FMV), Night Trap has the player observe teenage girls having a sleepover visiting a house which, unbeknownst to them, is infested with vampires. The player watches live surveillance footage and triggers traps to capture anyone endangering the girls. The player can switch between different cameras to keep watch over the girls and eavesdrop on conversations to follow the story and listen for clues.

Night Trap features three modes. First mode is Air Ride, which is a traditional circuit racing from a third-person perspective. Next mode is Top Ride, which features circuit racing viewed from above similar to Super Sprint and Super Off-Road. The final mode is City Trial, a free-for-all game type where players have a limited amount of time to grab as many upgrade items as possible.
